Storm leaves trail of devastation over $3,000,000 in damage

A tornado which slashed through Haliburton County Monday afternoon left a trail of destruction and debris in its wake. The violent storm ripped apart buildings, capsized boats, left roadways a range of downed trees and disrupted electrical and telephone services. Damage was estimated at more than $3 million.

Surprisingly, only minor injuries, none requiring hospitalization, were reported, even though the storm packed enough brute force to demolish buildings in its path.

The twister first struck just before 2 p.m. at the west end of Brady Lake in Hindon Township. A cottage belonging to Dave Helson of Toronto was literally ripped apart by the force of the storm. The roof and front wall of the structure was stripped away and the contents were strewn about the front yard. The cottage was being converted into a retirement home by the owner. As his years of hard work lay scattered across the yard, neighbours gathered to assist with the clean-up and to marvel at the force of the storm.

Other homes at the west end of Brady Lake also suffered from the force of the storm. Chimneys and television aerials were downed, numerous trees uprooted and power lines cut.

One witness recalled seeing a funnel shaped cloud which he described as a giant black snake, writhe its way telephone lines lay in a tangled mess with the downed trees.

Further along the Brady Lake Road, the storm touched down again, ripping the roof off the "Hindon Farm" and cutting a giant swathe through the forest.

The next area to feel the brunt of the storm was Kushog Lake and though the twister only touched down in a small area around Twin Rocks Resort, the damage in this swathe was across the lake. Another witness said he saw the roof of the Helson cottage hurled hundreds of feet out into the lake, sailing over a nearby island before landing in the water and disappearing.

A short distance from the cottage, the road was a tangled web of downed trees as the storm tossed trees, 50 years old and more, around like toothpicks. Anson, Hindon and Minden road crew used chain saws and the municipality's front end loader to push the timber off the roadway. Paralleling the road, the hydro and

At least 12 cottages are damaged, five of them utterly destroyed. The cost of the devastation is estimated at close to a million dollars. Gerald English, a cottage owner on Kushog was up for the weekend when the storm hit. He described the experience to a Times

Eakins tours storm damaged area

Victoria-Haliburton MPP, John Eakins, spent Tuesday evening touring the worst-hit areas in Stanhope Township, just thirty hours after the tornado left.

Mr. Eakins, accompanied by two aides and County Warden, Harry Davis, stopped off at Echo Bay on Boshkung Lake, Sherwood Forest and the shore of Kushog Lake around Twin Rocks Resort.

Amid broken glass and an assortment of debris from two homes that were swept clean from their foundations, they consoled residents of Echo Bay who were found engaged in the first stages of clean-up.

In viewing the devastation, Mr. Eakins expressed wonder at the fact that there had been no serious injuries, stating that "Given another two weeks, this whole area would have been packed with vacationers."

Referring to the half-destroyed Sherwood Forest, he added, "This was no wasteland of scrub the tornado passed through. It is acres of beautiful pines."

Miraculously, the antique log cabins which were once part of the Sherwood Forest Boys' Camp survived the crushing weight of trees falling in all directions.

Nature seems to have enacted similar miracles along Kushog Lake. Although trees had collapsed in force, very few damaged houses were seen.

Mr. Eakins called his trip a "fact-finding" one. He confided that there will be some discussion of the financial damage in provincial cabinet in the near future.

He stressed that this fact does not suggest nor guarantee the Ontario government's intent to provide financial aid to the victims of the tornado.

Mr. Eakins believed that the county's chance of receiving disaster aid is lessened by the fact that many of the destroyed homes were summer cottages and not year-round residences.

However, part of Mr. Eakins' reservation was due to his expressed need, "To get a more complete picture of the damage," a process that may take several days.

"Heartbreaking" was the word he used to sum up once-scenic areas that now look like a shell attack has taken place. Mr. Davis praised the politician for the speedy follow-up he exhibited.

Police caution residents about suspicious vehicles

Police have asked county residents to report the licence numbers of any suspicious vehicles seen in the area following a break in June 9 at a cottage on Moose Lake in Guilford Township. The police believe that a van seen in the area prior to the theft could be connected with the incident.

According to the police, the break-in occurred while the residents were away for the evening. The owners report that a series of anonymous phone calls had been received during the nights leading up to the occurrence.

Taken in the break-in were guitars, jewellery, furniture, and other household items valued at $5,000.00.

Police note, "Area residents should be alert to suspicious persons or vehicles loitering in their area and should record licence numbers whenever possible. Minden OPP will respond to check on such persons or vehicles whenever their workload permits."

Accidents

The police investigated two personal injury accidents during the past week. Both occurred on Saturday June 14.

A man has been charged with careless driving and failing to report an accident after the vehicle he was driving failed to negotiate a curve on Highway 35, careened across the highway and struck a parked vehicle. Robert Beauchamp 24, of Hamilton, was northbound when he lost control of his vehicle, a 1972 model MGB. His car sustained $3000 damage while the parked 1986 Ford pick-up suffered $1000 damage.

A passenger in the car, 25 year old Michael Monaghan of Minden suffered minor injuries.

Constable Al Barnes was the investigating officer.

In the other accident, motorcyclists Daniel Grills, 28, of Lakefield lost control of his 1982 Honda, flipping both him and his passenger off the bike. The driver and passenger, Paula Manley of Lakefield, were taken to Minden Hospital and transferred to St. Joseph's Hospital in Peterborough for treatment.

The machine sustained $7000 damage.

The investigating officer was Constable Brian Sachs.

Dorset acid rain report

The following is the acid rain report prepared by Environment Canada based on information gathered at the Ontario Ministry of Environment testing station in Dorset.

- June 10, a rainfall of 7 mm was recorded. The pH reading was 4.2. The path of the rainfall was traced over Ohio and Southern Ontario.

- a rainfall of 3 mm was recorded on June 11. The pH was 4.2. The rainfall was traced from Indiana. Michigan and Southern Ontario.

- a 16 mm rainfall was recorded June 12 at Dorset. The pH reading was 4.4. The rainfall travelled from Indiana, Ohio and Southern Ontario before reaching Dorset.

Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less are considered serious. The lower the pH reading, the more acidic the precipitation.

Working to put Highlands on the map - Shirley's first year

Since coming to the county just over a year ago to take over the job of manager of the Chamber of Commerce, Shirley Rapson has done a lot to put the Highlands on the tourist map of North America.

She's published a map of winter activities in the area; she arranged for the publication of the Haliburton Highlands booklet listing tourist events and activities, she's advertised the county at a number of high-profile Toronto travel shows and exhibitions, and perhaps most important of all, she's been to three travel shows in the United States.

The recent familiarization tour of American travel agents was the follow up to this, and if the rave comments and thank yous of the participants are any indication of the success of the tour, we may well be seeing a lot more visitors from south of the border this year.

"That tour was certainly one of the highlights of the year," says Rapson. "At present most tourists in Haliburton are from Toronto or other nearby Canadian cities. But if we could tap the American market - which we're just beginning to do - the potential would be vast."

The problem she's set out to solve as manager of the Chamber of Commerce, she explains, is the lack of information about the Highlands. "People in our own country, let alone the States, just aren't aware of what this area has to offer. We have some of the best accommodation in the province, marvelous scenery, and an enormous number of lakes which can't be beaten for fishing and swimming."

"As I see it, my job is to tell people about all these things." And that is exactly what Rapson has been doing for the past 12 months.

She built her job almost from the ground up. Her first task after pulling into town was to arrange for the landscaping of the area around the Chamber building, and with the help of the Horticultural Society and assistant Lorna Hicks, the official opening of the building was held in September and attended by the board of directors of the Chamber as well as County Council.

And Rapson is also working to increase Chamber membership. Last year's annual Chamber dinner was held at the PineStone Inn and one of her first rewards was the success of that event at which Tourism and Recreation Minister John Eakins spoke to a packed house.

Clearly though, she is not going to let this early success go to her head. Covering most of the wall in front of her desk is a large map of the county, liberally marked with various different coloured pins. Each business member of the Chamber, says Rapson, is marked with one of the pins, a different colour for each different kind of business. In a box beneath the map sits a good supply of more pins. Rapson intends to stick a good number of them into the map before she finishes her time at the Chamber.

For the future she's got some big ideas about how the Chamber can promote Haliburton to the world.

Though she points out they're all just dreams until the board of directors approves the ideas, Rapson explains she's been thinking of taking the Highlands to the big annual travel trade show in New York City. Of course, she admits, it would be expensive, but the audience we could reach would be huge.

Another notion she's had is to get a video of tourist attractions in the county made. It too might be expensive, and it's never been done before in the region, but it would also be a very effective way of telling people about ourselves. And the advantage of a video, she argues, is that you only have to make it once; unlike a book or pamphlet new editions can be run off at a fraction of the original production cost.

But for the immediate future, Rapson's plans are a little less ambitious. She's hoping for a gap in her hectic schedule so she can get out and enjoy some of the things she's been talking about.

Caring community

Once again this week, the elements tested the mettle of Haliburton County residents and once again they withstood the test.

Portions of the county north of Minden and Haliburton were devastated by a storm of tornado proportions. In its wake, the violent weather left a trail of broken homes and cottages, overturned boats, damaged roofs and blocked roads. However, it also left something indicative of the community in which we live.

Hardly had the rain stopped falling, than residents were venturing out of doors to offer assistance to their neighbours. Shortly after the storm had passed, teams of volunteers, municipal employees and utility workers were clearing the debris from the roadways. Neighbours, lacking the use of the telephone, struggled through the downed trees to ensure that fellow residents had come through the storm unscathed. Those in need of shelter and immediate assistance were quickly attended to and the work of repairing and rebuilding was started.

The community was fortunate that the main toll was in property damage. As MPP John Eakins noted, if the storm had passed through the area two weeks from now, the human tragedy could have been much greater. For this we can be grateful.

The community can also take pride in its response to this emergency. The strength of neighbours willing to share and help has been proven once again.

No butts

Board of Education Dysart Trustee Lynn Craigmyle is to be commended for his effort to reduce and eliminate smoking in the county's educational institutions. While his first motion, proposed at the May meeting of the board, ran into opposition, he feels the complicated nature of the motion was more responsible for its defeat than its overall intention. We hope he is right.

Educational authorities at all levels have an obligation to provide leadership for the students they serve and the community they represent. Smoking has long been recognized as a serious health hazard and so the board has a duty to ensure its staff members do not set an example that is contrary to the student's own wellbeing. We can only hope that other members of the board can see the wisdom of this course of action, if not for themselves and the adults in the various schools, at least for the youngsters entrusted to their care, and back Mr. Craigmyle's effort to enact this new policy.

Editor:

While recently in your town of Minden, I was disappointed to see how heartlessly the people of Minden reacted to a very distressing situation, which could have resulted in a more serious situation.

While driving down the main street, I noticed a woman in the midst of having a seizure, before I could reach her she had fallen and hit her face on the sidewalk. There were people on the street who did not even acknowledge her situation.

I immediately went into the restaurant to ask them to call an ambulance and was disappointed in the response. It appears that basically people do not want to get involved! An ambulance was called, and the situation was taken care of.

Although this case was not as serious as it could have been, I'm surprised that people could be so uncaring in such a small community, because no matter who she was or what she represents, she is still a human being, deserving of other people's help. I would expect something like this to happen in a big city but not in a rural area like this!

Haliburton County has done itself proud once again. Our third annual Walk for Water was a great success and showed the commitment of all involved to an event and a cause which has now established itself on an annual basis. The organizational committee worked hard to put this year's walk together but our jobs were continually lightened by those in the community who so willingly provided their time, talents, money and enthusiastic legs.

Once again, a small band of pipers led everyone to spirited start the Minden Radio Club kept us all in touch, cheerful volunteers ran the checkpoints and local merchants provided us with advertising space and refreshments. For the first time we added a boat ride and entertainment at the end. A flotilla of small craft and Magoo's music ensured the success of those and both of our newspapers provided first rate coverage.

The H.A.V.E. Committee heartily thanks our 98 walkers, their sponsors and the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. Together you raised $11,000, which CIDA will match to bring a total of $2200. As chairman of this year's walk, I thank our committee for their dedication, enthusiasm and home baking.

Meeting needs of Ontario elderly

- by John Eakins, MPP -

By the turn of the century, close to 1.4 million people in Ontario will be 65 years of age or older. As we, in Victoria-Haliburton, have certainly experienced an increase in the percentage of seniors in our communities. This is an active group, as illustrated last week in Lindsay, when over 200 senior athletes took part at the district level of the Ontario Senior Games at the Victoria Park Armoury.

Recognizing the implications of a dramatic demographic change, our Government initiated a comprehensive review of all senior citizens services in the fall of 1985. As a first step in addressing the needs of our aging population, the Minister for Senior Citizen's Affairs, Ron Van Horne, has released a White Paper on health and social services care for Ontario's seniors.

Entitled "A New Agenda" the report is a blueprint for the future of seniors' care in Ontario. As Mr. Van Horne told members of the legislature, "For the first time in the history of this province, a government has set out a broad strategic plan which will serve our senior citizens now and in the future."

In tabling his statement of government policy, the Minister said the central purpose is "To develop a comprehensive system of Numerous calls of alarm have reached the Federation of Ontario Naturalists over recent weeks. 'What's happened to all the birds', they ask? 'Haven't there been any coming north this spring?'

This has, indeed, been a strange spring. Masses of tiny ruby and golden-crowned kinglets poured through about the second week of April, followed by ... almost nothing. No great flocks of white throated sparrows, picking through lawns and gardens. No grey-and-white juncos. A few warblers when we're used to thousands making their way, slinkily-like, up valleys.

'Has there been a massive die-off', the callers ask? 'Are pesticides responsible?'

Not to worry.

Peculiar weather conditions upset the migration. And most of the birds, it appears, moved through at night.

The culprit was the jet stream. A high atmospheric river of easterly flowing air, it is invisible, yet plays an enormous role in determining weather. During April and early May - the peak period of migration - the jet stream looped like a giant cup down the west side and beneath the Great Lakes. Far to the south of its normal position, it held almost - stationary a vast, high pressure weather system over southern Ontario, with dry weather and outward flowing winds.

Most of our songbirds move in two ways during migration. They make along flights during the night, often far above the ground. By day, they alternately rest and poke along close to the ground, feeding as they go. (Some species concentrate more on night travel, others more on day movement).

On the flight from southern wintering-grounds to northern breeding areas, the Great Lakes offer a major obstacle. They range up to 100 km wide, (300 km across the upper lakes) and must be crossed non-stop. To a bird that is 1/15 a human length and 1/5000 our weight, that's a vast flight. It's like you or I flying non-stop to southern Florida.

And, a 30 km/hr headwind more than doubles the distance a small bird has to fly through moving air. That's like you or I flying non-stop to South America.

Strong winds - particularly those blowing round-the-clock from a frontal system moving out of the northwest - pins the birds down on the south shore of the Great Lakes. Frequently, 3 to 5 days of migrating birds pile up, awaiting calm conditions. Then, huge numbers spill across, funnelling toward the points projecting into the lakes - like Long

A new look for Hart Lodge

John Mateer is a man with some big ideas.

Since taking over Hart Lodge two years ago, the part owner and president has overseen renovations and new construction totalling three quarters of a million dollars.

Last year the lodge received $179,000 from the Provincial Government TRIP program which went into modernizing the electrical and plumbing systems of the old buildings and winterization. In April of this year, they received another $430,000 from the same program and this money has already been put to use in the construction of a two storey, eight unit motel building adjacent to the main office and 3 two bedroom cottages. The new buildings are to be completed by July 5th and will be winterized.

"What we're trying to do," explains Mateer, "is attract the winter trade. We know there's a demand for the kind of accommodation we offer in the winter. Now we need to inform people that we're here." The new buildings will raise the capacity of the lodge significantly; they represent a 50 per cent increase in the number of units, from 29 to 43.

Mateer is also interested in attracting bus tours. "Seniors from Toronto often come to the Highlands in groups to enjoy the fall colours, and we're doing a number of things to get their business." Among these he lists the construction of the new motel building ("Seniors generally prefer this sort of living arrangement to the cottages.")

The county has so much to offer, says Mateer, that people just don't know about. The cross-country skiing here is some of the best in the province, and the Highlands also has one of the biggest snowmobile clubs. One problem he says promoters of the region often face is the poor weather reporting of the Toronto media. "When an announcer at a southern radio station gets to the weather, he usually misses out areas that don't border directly on Toronto. So when it rains in the city, people think it's raining here too. That's a real problem in winter because often we have plenty of snow but no one will believe us."

One of the things Mateer hopes to do to solve some of these problems, is to work with other business owners on Highway 35 in the same way business on Kashiagawigamog Lake have banded together. Of course this is in the future, he admits, but already business people along the highway work together in an informal way. "We're cooperative, but competitive. If we're full here and someone comes looking for a room, I phone around to see if someone else has a vacancy. Or if there's a person whose needs we can't meet, like someone who's disabled, we do the same thing."

Though Mateer tried to use local firms to do the building, the lodge had to give most of the work to an Orillia firm that was able to meet the construction deadline. They did, however, hire county firms to do the electrical and plumbing work.

Controlling pornography

- by Bill Scott, MP -

On May 10, the Honourable John Crosbie, Minister of Justice and Attorney General of Canada introduced legislation in Parliament to revise the laws dealing with sexual abuse and exploitation of children and with pornography. I know from the letters from you, my constituents, this is a welcome announcement.

The new legislation would repeal existing obscenity provisions in the Criminal Code and replace them with a clear definition of pornography and of what materials are to be prohibited. A precise classification of pornographic material will be used. It will prohibit the production, sale, rental or distribution of any pornographic material showing physical harm, sexually violent behaviour, degradation and explicit sexual acts.

To hit hardest at child pornography, the legislation includes clauses which state that:

- The distribution, importation, making or possession of child pornography could result in a penalty of up to 10 years in prison.

- The use of a child in the production of pornography carries a penalty of up to 10 years in prison.

- The child pornography provisions apply to children under 18 years of age or anyone who appears to be under 18 years.

- The distribution, sale, rental or display of pornography advocating child sexual abuse is prohibited.

A new section of the Customs Tariff makes it illegal to import all forms of pornography, hate propaganda and child pornography.

In another move to protect our young people, and in response to input from Canadians from coast-to-coast, amendments to the Criminal Code and to the Canada Evidence Act have been proposed. These are essential to control and reduce the incidence of sexual abuse and exploitation identified in both the Badgley and Fraser reports on child sexual abuse, pornography and prostitution. A number of provisions of the Criminal Code will be amended, and a number of new offences are being introduced to provide additional protection.

In addition to the increased protections against the sexual abuse of children, the Criminal Code is being amended to provide severe penalties for those who solicit, procure or live off the avails of juvenile prostitutes. Other amendments would permit children under 14 years to appear as witnesses in sexual abuse cases without the need for corroboration. The existing limitation of one year on proceedings would be eliminated for all child sexual abuse offences.

At the same time, the Honourable Jake Epp, Minister of National Health and Welfare, said the government would shortly be announcing the appointment of a Special Adviser on Child Sexual Abuse to coordinate activities at the federal level. In addition to the appointment of the Special Adviser, the federal government will undertake a variety of social and educational measures making use of established mechanisms for consulting with the provinces and territories and the voluntary sector.

As Mr. Crosbie and Mr. Epp stated, "In proposing these measures, the government is giving recognition to the inherent dignity of individuals, particularly women and young people, who are most vulnerable to misrepresentation and exploitation."

services to help seniors live active and independent lives in their own communities and to significantly reduce preventable and unnecessary institutionalization." To accomplish this, "A New Agenda" sets out a broad plan based on five strategies.

The first is to improve the health and functional status of senior citizens in Ontario. Mr. Van Horne said this can be accomplished through an increased emphasis on health promotion and illness prevention, more education in geriatrics and more research related to aging.

Helping to keep the frail elderly in the community is the second strategy. Toward this goal, community support services will be expanded and made more accessible through a "one-stop-shopping" approach to program delivery.

Since hospitals play a key role in maintaining the health of Ontario seniors and enable many to continue living at home, the third strategy is to enhance geriatric hospital care. To accomplish this, the government will set up regional geriatric centres, expand outreach and in-patient services and place greater emphasis on rehabilitation and convalescent programs.

The fourth strategy is to ensure high quality, long term care for those who cannot continue to live independently in their community. "Pivotal to this," Mr. Van Horne, "is the development of new legislation to rationalize and significantly improve the existing extended care program. We also intend to regulate to the quality of care in rest homes." These goals cannot be achieved through a series of ad hoc initiatives but require a comprehensive approach which addresses all major aspects of the health and social services system for the elderly.

Therefore, the fifth and final strategy is to introduce comprehensive planning and management of these services at both the provincial and local level. The Minister for Senior Citizens' Affairs will be responsible for co-ordinating overall provincial policy on services for seniors.

While comprehensive planning is essential, it must be accompanied by complementary and co-operative action. In support of the White Paper, Community and Social Services Minister John Sweeney announced that $12 million annually will go to expand the Integrated Homemaker Program to an additional six to eight communities. As well, $4.4 million a year will be used to improve home support services for seniors such as meals on wheels, friendly visits and home-care. In addition, $3 million in annual funding will continue the expansion of community services for victims of Alzheimer's disease and their families.

The Health Ministry will provide $5 million toward the development of five regional geriatric units, my colleague Health Minister Murray Elston announced. These units will be located in teaching hospitals at Ontario's five health sciences centres and will provide multi-disciplinary health care teams to assess and treat elderly patients. As well, $500,000 will go to community health centres for the elderly.

In order to ensure the availability of skilled professionals competent to deal with the special needs of our elderly population, Colleges and Universities Minister Gregory Sobara announced the Ontario Government will establish a department of geriatrics at an Ontario university.

The strategies presented in "A New Agenda" represent an outline of a plan for policy and program development in health and social services for the elderly over the next 15 years. As was stated in the White Paper, "It is our belief that through co-operative action, Ontario will be able to develop an effective, affordable and sensitive system of care for our senior citizens."

from the chamber

by Shawn Hagerman

Michael Danks, the Ontario Representative for the Chambers of Commerce Group Insurance Plan, spoke last week to our board of directors. He gave an informative discussion concerning the history of the Chamber of Commerce Group Plans over the last 16 years. It has grown into a nation-wide plan, encompassing chambers of commerce both large and small across Canada. Various chambers, such as Hamilton, Oakville, Peterborough, Lindsay, Oshawa, etc., all have become part of this large association.

Mr. Danks also spoke of the ongoing stability of the plan. Its life and disability rates, for each age group within the plan have not increased since its inception. In fact over the last 16 years the life and disability costs have gone down by an estimated 10%. This has been especially attractive to employers who must know what the future costs must be. Drug and dental plans have experienced modest price increases over the past several years of 5% yearly. This, of course, is to help keep the benefits relative to current inflation.

The plan is divided into two groups, those with three or more employees and those with one or two employees. Both plans are able to offer life, disability, drug and dental benefits. However, currently those with three or more employees do not require any medical evidence. Their plan is guaranteed to be issued and cannot be cancelled, unless, either they fail to renew their membership in our Chamber or the whole association plan is discontinued. Those groups with one or two employees require a brief medical statement of health.

Mr. Danks also spoke to the board concerning the attractive features associated with its drug and dental plan. Currently, an individual, pay direct Blue Cross Drug Plan costs approximately $70.00 a month. In comparison the Chamber Group Plan can be purchased at a family rate of $19.60.

Mr. Danks was also very pleased at how well the plan has been received so far, by our Chamber members. This is very much a win win situation, whereby the members are assured of a guaranteed issue plan with stable rates. The Chamber is able to provide a much needed service for that benefits the Chamber and its members.

If you would like additional information please call and leave your name at the Chamber of Commerce office. 286-1760.

Point, Pelee and Rondeau, and Prince Edward County. If weather conditions turn damp or foggy, the birds move slowly northward, hugging the ground and producing the vast flocks we see in backyards.

This spring's peculiar positioning of the jet-stream produced bone-dry conditions, without moving weather fronts. More significantly, it produced strong daytime northwest winds. As is typical of hot, summer-like conditions, the winds were strong by day, often dying away to nothing at night.

The smaller birds simply didn't cross in the day. Many awaited the still conditions of dusk, then raced northward. With the absence of wet or foggy conditions, they kept right on going.

So, the birds did come. But, most came when we weren't watching. And, thanks to the weather, they didn't have to dawdle once they crossed the lakes.

Most are now furiously at work, incubating eggs or rearing their summer broods.

Come fall, they'll be on their way south. Some wit will doubtless hope for fowl weather then, so that he can get a better look.

It took only six months to get them into shape and last Saturday 72 perfectly respectable Canadian youths were lined up at attention on the pavement in front of the Dysart Community Centre, their uniforms pressed and buttons polished in preparation for Haliburton County's first cadet graduation ceremony.

Speakers at the event included Reeve Murray Fearrey and Lieutenant Commander Wayne Wood, Commanding Officer of the 1129 Royal Canadian Cadet Corps, with which the Haliburton corps is affiliated.

Administrative Officer Gerald Irish, who also spoke at the graduation, explains that the Haliburton Corps only became official last December, the enthusiasm the young people have shown has been very encouraging.

Those in front of the Community Centre on Saturday will graduate "with a raft of skills" that include marching, shooting, wilderness survival and deportment. The corps is co-educational and all members are between the ages of 13 and 18.

When cadets reach the age of 18, they have the option of joining the Armed Forces, and if they choose, they also have a good chance of gaining entrance to Royal Military College in Kingston.

Congratulations valu-mart

Minden Valu-Mart Manager Bill Kulas, centre, Greg Middlebrook, right, District Sales Manager for Frito-Lay Canada and Dave Shuker, left, area sales representative for Frito-Lay Canada, present Cris Lewis of Bob Lake with a new BMX bicycle, grand prize in the Ruffles Challenge draw held Saturday. Other winners included, portable mini-cassette players - Brian Childs of Markham and David Murphy of Scarborough; Halogen portable spot lights - Cory Magee of Minden, Wendy Hughes of Minden, Pamela Aubrey of Scarborough and Blanche Dart of Markham. The Ruffles Challenge in Minden showed 84% of those taking part preferred Ruffles potato chips over the other leading brand, 5% were undecided and 11% preferred the other leading brand.

Some of the 12 enthusiastic dog owners who took part in the first annual Walk-a-Dog-a-Thon on Sunday are pictured on the early stage of the course. Bradley Trumbull of Minden and his dog Duke set the record for pledges with $132.00 contributed. More than $350 has been collected from the event for Canine Vision Canada, a company that trains seeing-eye dogs for blind citizens.

Minden will host two events

Once again this summer, Minden is going to be the site of two major sports events. On August 1, the Rockcliffe Tavern along with Brooks and Heineken will be sponsoring the Heineken Yard, a 7.4 kilometre foot race beginning at Camp Onandaga and ending in front of the Rockcliffe. Over the years the race has become something of a tradition in the Highlands and the many participants come from across southern Ontario.

The entrance fee is seven dollars and everyone who finishes will win a prize. Larger prizes and trophies will go to winners of the three divisions, which include masters, open and junior in men's and ladies sections.

And, on August 23 and 24, the Pan-Am '86 White Water Slalom race will be held at the Minden Wild Water Preserve off Horseshoe Lake Road. It's one of the biggest canoe and kayak races in the province and is expected to draw 120 competitors including some world champions.

Although it is not the sort of event in which anyone can participate, as well as being one of the biggest races, it's also quite dangerous - it is sure to be a spectacular sight.

Study shows Horseshoe Lake systems improved

According to a study on Horseshoe Lake cottage sewage systems carried out by the Ministry of the Environment last year, 42 per cent of the residences had substandard sewage disposal systems when the study was carried out in the summer of 1985. Three per cent were rated as direct polluters that contaminated the ground or surface water.

But by December, the study says, about 16 per cent of the faulty systems had been corrected and agreements had been signed with owners of another seven per cent to undertake repairs.

The remaining unsatisfactory systems owners have been contacted by the Ministry and MOE officers are trying to obtain commitments for improvements.

The Horseshoe Lake study is part of the Ministry Cottage Pollution Control Program, begun in 1970, which is intended to enforce pollution standards in Ontario Lakes. Every year a different group of lakes is selected for observation and the work is carried out by teams of students who map each cottage and sewage system.

Farmers should analyze records

Farm businessmen who analyze their financial records might come across the term "cost control" and wonder what it is, or what significance it has for the financial well-being of their businesses.

Cost control, stated simply, is the percentage of your total income that you get to keep. It is your Net Farm Income as a percentage of your Total Revenue. It measures the degree of control a businessman has over his cost of production. The "cost control index" (C.C.I.) is the Net Farm Income (NFI) divided by the Total Farm Revenue, expressed as a percentage.

Net Farm Income is determined by an accrual Income Statement. That is, it takes into account all costs including interest, inventory change and depreciation.

Because all costs are included, the Cost Control Index is a true measure of performance efficiency. The profit-minded businessman will strive to get his C.C.I. as high as possible.

As the C.C.I. increases, it shows that a larger percentage of his income is being returned to the business, not only as profits, but as "New Worth" or Equity as well.

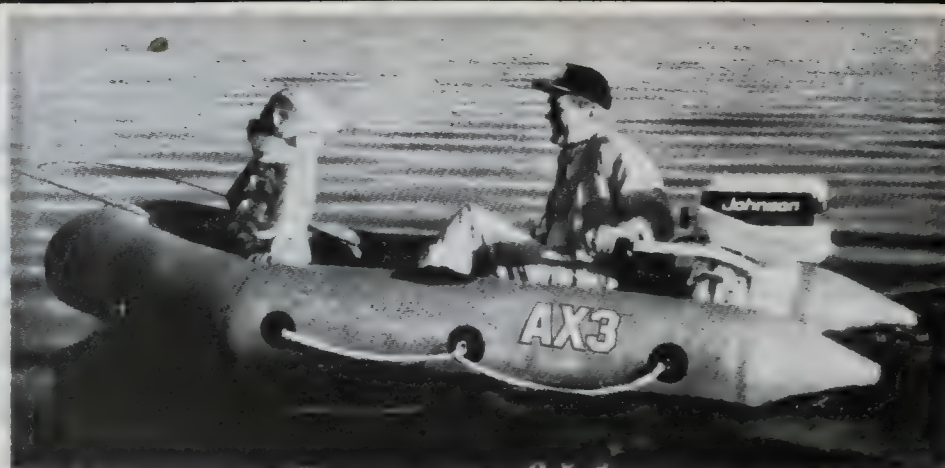

In businesses such as farming, when prices for commodities and inputs vary greatly, the Cost Control Index will vary accordingly. So it cannot be used as an absolute measurement of business health. It is best used in conjunction with other performance indicators and over an extended period of time. A general trend up or down over three or four years can tell the wise manager whether changes need to be made in his business.

Cottages ripped apart - boats overturned

reporter shortly afterward as he surveyed the damage to his property. "We were just sitting in the cottage, my wife and I, when suddenly it hit. The twister just lifted everything in its path, water, boats, houses, - I saw it all fly past our house."

"I put the wife and the dog under the bed and opened all the windows so the pressure wouldn't shatter the house." With minor damage to his cottage and a new $10,000 boat destroyed, ("It was just picked up a hundred feet into the air and dropped!") English considers he got off easily.

After crossing Boshkung Lake, the storm struck next at the Echo Bay area. Trees surrounding the Stan Archer home at the corner of Echo Bay Road and Highway 35 were uprooted, broken and twisted. The television aerial was broken off. Across the highway, on a portion of the old Highway 35, hundreds of trees were toppled, bringing with them the hydro and telephone lines serving the residences and cottages in the area.

Damage in the Beech Lake area was extensive.

Beech Lake

Police report 12 residences destroyed, 24 damaged and one barn levelled. The cost of the damage they estimate at around $1,100,000.

Ernie Francis, one of the cottagers on the lake, didn't lose any property and he and his son, Jeff, helped transport some of the less fortunate owners to safety. Jeff Francis was sitting in his living room when the storm hit. "I saw it touch down on the lake, a huge, great twister, and it just lifted the water in a great coil right into the clouds. It came to within about one hundred yards of our shoreline before it veered across to the other side of the lake..."

The sound of the storm, he says, was very loud. "Like standing beside Niagara Falls." It lasted for about a minute and a half and during that time the sky went black.

The destruction on Beech Lake is some of the worst in the county. A large number of residences on the south end of the lake area at least partially damaged, with lawns littered with uprooted trees and shattered boats. The storm also cut a wide path in the forested hillside behind the lake and the trees in this area are flattened.

Roof gone

The storm stripped away the roof of the two storey home belonging to Ron Bacon on Highway 118, east of Carnarvon. In a matter of seconds, the blast of wind had lifted the roof from the building and sent it flying over the hill behind. A storage shed out the back of the home was lifted from its base and tossed into the forest at the rear of the home. The contents of the shed were scattered about the yard.

Mrs. Bacon and her two children were in the home at the time, but were unhurt.

The tornado then skipped over the hill and ripped through the rural yard of Clarence Redner on Concession Twenty in Stanhope Township. Mr. Redner recalls that he had been cutting wood in his sugar bush nearby with his son-in-law, Bob Robinson, when the wind started to pick up. "I don't like to be cutting trees when the wind is blowing, because you never know which way a tree is going to fall," he said. The pair returned to the farm just before the storm struck.

"We were in the house watching the storm out of the window," Mr. Redner said, "when it suddenly drew dark." Anticipating the serious nature of the storm, the adults in the house gathered the two grandchildren who were sleeping upstairs and brought them down to the main floor.

The family was gathered in the living room when the full brunt of the storm struck. "Bob said, 'what's that noise' and when we looked out of the window, the barn was completely level. There was nothing left standing." What the family did see was a swirling cloud of debris that gathered up planks, rubble, branches and all sorts of material, twisting it higher and higher into the air. Fearing the worst, the family headed for the basement where they took shelter for about three minutes until the main fury of the storm had passed.

They emerged from the house a short time later to survey the scene left behind by the storm. While the house was virtually unscathed, losing only one of two chimneys and the television aerial, the barn, some fifty feet away, was flattened. A number of storage sheds located near the barn were also destroyed by the force of the storm. In one instance, only the base of the shed remained. Mr. Redner said there was no trace of the structure to be found anywhere.

The post and beam barn lay scattered across the adjacent pasture with one of the beams being tossed one hundred feet or more to the roadway below where the structure stood. The fieldstone foundation of the barn was cracked and a corner broken away. Two ponies housed in the lower section were unhurt, however, they appeared somewhat skittish after coming through the storm.

As he walked through the rubble, Mr. Redner identified items tossed about by the gale. Some of the heavier pieces had been located quite a distance from where they lay, providing mute evidence to the impact of the storm.

Along a nearby fence line, sheets of shiny metal cladding were pressed against the wire. The metal showed the impressions of the fencing underneath. "That is siding from my ice fishing hut," Mr. Redner pointed out. "It was located over there," indicating some fifty feet distant. The hut had been ripped apart.

Car nailed

The garage in which the car was parked when the storm hit was not longer in evidence. Mr. Redner identified bits and pieces of the structure as he walked through the yard, but was unable to find a substantial portion of the building in one section.

Surprisingly, the car suffered only two minor scrapes and a puncture from the storm. Mr. Redner is uncertain how the scrapes occurred, but the hole in the door panel was another thing. When he first examined the car for damage, he found a piece of plywood with a nail in it securely attached to the side of the car. The force of the wind had driven the board and nail through the side panel of the vehicle.

While a storm of this size is often characterized by the massive destruction it causes, a smaller bit of detail caught the attention of Mr. Redner. As he walked through his yard, he noticed the tops of his newly-hilled potato plants had been nipped off close to the ground. As though trimmed with a lawn mower, the stubs of the plants provided indication that the voracious fingers of the storm wrapped themselves around the small objects as well as the big. While the strawberry plants in a nearby bed retained their leaves and stems, the area was littered with berries stripped from their runners.

Standing in the middle of this rubble, Mr. Redner talked calmly about the tragedy which had struck his farm. Surveying the shambles, he commented, "We were just lucky no one was hurt...there were no injuries."

From the hill where Mr. Redner's barn used to be, one could see the train of the tornado after it passed the Redner property. It appeared as if a giant scythe had cut through the bush on the hills opposite, leaving a path of twisted and broken trees, some broken at mid-trunk, others simply uprooted and tossed on their side. Several paths of destruction indicated that the storm included more than one centre.

At West Guilford, on Highway 118, more twisted and broken trees could be seen. At Hillcrest Resort, next to the Lakeside Golf Course, a number of trees were snapped off or uprooted. One of the smaller trees had landed on the roof of a cabin. The damage appeared to be minimal, but the owner was still obviously concerned about his property as he examined the situation.

On the other side of West Guilford, where the Camp Towhee entrance to Highway 118 is located, was another scene of destruction. Trees on both sides of the highway had been uprooted, broken and laid flat. The entrance to the camp's driveway was littered with downed trees and the area appeared as if a massive clear cutting operation had taken place without the trees being removed.

There was reportedly no one except several caretakers at the camp when the storm struck. At this point, reports of damage at the camp are unclear. A spokesman at Camp White Pine, located across the lake from Towhee says that damage is minimal, while other reports have indicated the facility was virtually destroyed.

At Camp White Pine, where a large group of students from the Toronto area were staying, damage was also limited.

Ironically both camps are located on Hurricane Lake.

Across Highway 118 from the camp entrance, trees and hydro lines had been severed by the storm. Wires lay stretched between the few remaining standing poles, pulled taut by the trees resting on them. The swathe of destruction continued into the bush.

According to observers, the main brunt of the storm carried on through the bush to Drag Lake in Dysart Township, where the fury of the storm was spent. The storm did little damage in this area compared to the destruction realized in other parts of the county.

As soon as the storm had passed, armies of volunteers, neighbours and employees from the municipalities and utilities descended on the scenes offering assistance and comfort. The main task, in most instances, was in clearing the downed trees which blocked access to the damaged properties. The combined effort of volunteers, Hydro and Bell personnel, volunteer firemen, roads crew, OPP and others ensured that those isolated by the storm were reached quickly to determine if medical assistance was required.

The storm left behind millions of dollars of damage, but miraculously, no one was seriously injured. One man is reported to have been pulled through the window of his cottage on Beech Lake and tossed onto the roof of an adjoining building. Gary Groves, 26, of Niagara on the Lake, suffered minimal injuries.

Storm called worst in recent

The tornado that cut a swathe of destruction across Hindon, Stanhope and Dysart townships on Monday was called the worst in memory by several long-time residents of the area. A "conservative" estimate released by the OPP yesterday placed the damage to structures alone at over three and a half million dollars.

The estimate does not include damage to any vehicle or boat or to timber or public utilities. The OPP believed that, because the vast majority of the damaged structures are summer cottages, it may not be until July when an accurate damage estimate is known.

Many roads leading into Kushog and Boshkung Lakes remained blocked Tuesday. Volunteers able to help in the clearing of roads will be needed for the next several days and should call Ontario Hydro.

As well, the OPP urged cottage owners needing information on damage to call a reliable neighbour or winter snow shoveller rather than the police, as the flow of official information is proceeding slowly.

According to County Warden Harry Davis, tax assessors are now in the process of making a detailed survey of the damage in the townships concerned. As with the police, time is necessary for the operation and a full assessment will take several days.

As of Tuesday night, the number of buildings destroyed stood at 22, with an undetermined number of wrecked or damaged buildings at Camp Towhee on Hurricane Lake. A further 80 buildings stand damaged.

Although most of the damage was wrought by the tornado, high winds and heavy rain are known to have caused minor damage in almost all other places in the county. Areas heavily hit by the tornado are on western Brady Lake, southern Kushog Lake, western Beech Lake and Hurricane Lake. Echo Bay on Boshkung Lake was more seriously affected and the north shore of Echo Bay virtually devastated.

Considerable timber damage was also observed, especially in the Sherwood Forest area on the east shore of Boshkung Lake and the south shore of Beech Lake. The full extent of forestry damage will not be known until the Ministry of Natural Resources surveys the tornado path with a helicopter Wednesday.

Bell Canada estimates that at least 200 utility poles fell in the storm. Both power and telephone services were disrupted as a result. By Tuesday, power, and telephone service had been restored to a large portion of the affected areas.

across centre of Highlands

Areas that were still not reconnected as of last night are Brady Lake, Kushog Lake, the Sherwood Forest area on Boshkung Lake, the south shore of Beech Lake and the 25th line in Stanhope Township. Crews were working on restoring service to Brady Lake and northern Kushog Lake Tuesday night and service was expected to be restored there.

However, some other areas may have to wait until Thursday to have power restored, according to Jim Davis of Ontario Hydro.

Mr. Davis emphasized that Hydro has no way of knowing whether an area is without power, unless the customer informs them.

The severe damage reported in Kinmount is not thought to have been caused by a tornado but by unusually high winds. Mr. and Mrs. P. Percy who live on Highway 121, half a kilometre north of Kinmount, did report seeing a small waterspout hit the Burnt River behind their home at 2:50 p.m.

Damage concentrated in five areas

These are the latest damage statistics for Monday's storm as compiled by the Ontario Provincial Police, Minden Detachment.

There were five main areas of damage:

- 1) Brady Lake, Hindon Township - 1 cottage destroyed, 4 cottages damaged - valued at $65,000.
- 2) Kushog Lake, Stanhope Township - 5 residences destroyed, 12 residences damaged - valued at $800,000.
- 3) Boshkung Lake, Stanhope Township - 3 residences destroyed, 40 residences damaged - valued at $1,000,000.
- 4) Beech Lake, Stanhope Township - 12 residences destroyed, 24 residences damaged, 1 barn destroyed - valued at $1,100,000.

Hurricane Lake (Lake Placid), Dysart Township - Camp White Pine slightly damaged, no injuries, Camp Towhee damaged to unknown extent - valued at $550,000.

The OPP are calling the cost estimates conservative. The estimate does not cover damage to vehicles, boats, timber, hydro or telephone facilities.

There were no deaths or injuries requiring hospitalization reported.

Ferocity of storm stuns property owners

Storm strikes Kinmount Monday afternoon

While most of the attention has been focussed north of Minden following Monday's storm, the Village of Kinmount also sustained extensive damage. The community was struck at about the same time, mid-afternoon with high winds and heavy rainfall lashing the village.

According to Kinmount resident Millie Moss, the storm resulted in lengthy power and phone service outages with many trees being knocked down and some temporary flooding.

Several of the trees fell on houses or sheds adjacent to homes in the community seriously damaging the property. The force of the storm also brought a light standard on the village's main street crashing to the ground. Numerous TV antennae and towers were toppled by the storm.

Residents returning home after the storm found large branches blocking drive-ways and area streets. On her own property, Mrs. Moss reported that a tree came down, narrowly missing a tool shed and wishing well.

In other areas of the community, portions of roofs were reported lost.

The intensive rain which fell in a short period of time turned the community's main street, Highway 121, into a pond. The water was reported to be so high that it was lapping at the front door of the Kinvale Inn. Once the rain ceased, the water quickly subsided.

Power was off at some residences for over five hours with work crews working feverishly to get most residences reconnected to the system. It could be a number of days before power is restored to all locations in the community.

Members of the community's fire brigade and municipal works department assisted in clearing the area of downed trees. Most worked into the evening to clear the debris.

The storm also brought out a large number of sightseers who wanted to get a firsthand look at the havoc created by the storm.

According to Mrs. Moss, there have been no reports of any injuries related to the storm. She notes that many properties will now have a decidedly different look with the forced pruning carried out by the winds of the storm.

Controversial Toronto statue finds its way to Stanhope Township

Driving past Tony Aymong's place north of Carnarvon, you may happen to notice three large steel objects at the farthest corner of the back yard. They're sculptures - part of a work entitled Opera of Tragic Intoxication - and earlier this year, sitting in two different Toronto parks, they caused a furor among local politicians and some residents because of one particular piece described by outraged critics as obscene.

Created by artist Peter Boyer, they sat first in Trinity Bellwoods Park on Queen Street and were later moved to Queens Park because of complaints.

The offending sculpture is a depiction of a naked man, his genitals prominent, being grabbed around the head by an eagle. The whole piece is about seven and a half feet tall and weighs close to a ton. Also in the group is a large eye about five feet tall, and a piano with four or five goblets - some of them fallen over and others wilting - and a large, oversized flower lying on top.

The reason they're sitting in Aymong's back yard is a curious but complicated one. By the time the pieces were removed from Queens Park, Boyer, like most artists, was broke and had no place to put his work. Enter sister Pattie Boyer and her generous neighbour Tony. Having plenty of space and a neighbour with a relative in need, Aymong offered his back yard as a temporary resting place for the art. And there for the last few weeks it's been sitting.

According to Pattie Boyer, the artist is breathing a lot more easily now that his work is safe from the taunts of outraged Torontonians. "Even when Peter was helping to put it up in Toronto, passersby would stop their cars in the street and stare. And when people started to complain, the politicians from City Hall began to call, some of them with the foulest and most uncalled for sort of abuse." Worst of all, the sculpture was frequently vandalized. "It was pushed over at least once and it got to the point that Peter had to camp in the park to prevent people from trying to paint it." And once during the night someone even wrapped a diaper about the sculpture's middle.

How long is the work going to stay at Aymong's place? Pattie is unsure. "We haven't really decided that yet." In the meantime, not having been properly set on a base, the sculpture is beginning to sink into the lawn and tilt. Eventually the depiction of the man and the eagle will topple over if nothing is done.

But it will probably not be knocked over by indignant Haliburtonians worried about the morality of their fellow citizens. So far, says Pattie, there have been no complaints and no attempts to damage any of the three pieces. Though some might argue this is because the controversial piece faces away from the road, the more optimistic among us will realize there have been no complaints because Haliburtonians are traditionally more open-minded than their neighbours to the south.

Part of the controversial "Opera of Tragic Intoxication".

Stott honoured by Red Cross for forty years service

After putting in 40 years of volunteer service for the Red Cross, Al Stott isn't quite sure if he wants to give it up yet. "I retired from my job with a heavy equipment manufacturing company in 1973 and wasn't intending to take up with the Red Cross again when my wife and I came to Lutterworth eleven years ago." But the Society called almost as soon as the Stotts arrived and he's been working for them ever since.

Two years ago Stott received formal recognition for his labours when he was presented with a Silver Distinguished Award. And again on June 9 this year after going into semi-retirement - "If they want me, they'll call" - Stott was presented with a citation for dedication and enthusiasm.

His accomplishments include the establishment of a Homemakers Service in this district, enabling families crippled by an illness to hire the services of a housekeeper at a nominal fee, and the introduction of a babysitter training course in Minden.

Stott continues to sit as a member of the Lutterworth Municipal Council.

Al Stott displays the certificate recently awarded to him by the Canadian Red Cross.

CANADA DAY

Farmers informed about program

The attendance of over 150 farmers from Victoria and Haliburton counties at a Tripartite Stabilization Information Meeting in Lindsay last week shows this is a topic of current interest for farmers. The basic details of this program, which provides insurance against serious income loss due to low market prices, were outlined. The details of the individual plans for beef cow-calf producers, slaughter beef, hog producers (including the weaner producers split) and for lamb producers, were reviewed.

A number of practical questions regarding how the program operates were discussed. One area of concern which caused considerable discussion was how beef producers who background their calves fit into the program. The following information has been received from stabilization staff in the provincial office, following the meeting.

Cow-calf producers who keep their calves through until they are finished are expected to register their animals and pay the premiums on them when they have been weaned.

Producers who often only background the animals selling them as yearlings to feedlots, but who sometimes keep some of the animals and finish them, are expected to register the animals and pay the premiums at the point in time when they decide they are going to keep the animals and keep them for slaughter. These producers would enroll with the slaughter beef plan now registering the number of animals they currently have which they plan to finish. If they have no animals at the moment which they are sure they will be finishing, then they should still enroll now, but register zero animals at this time.

Producers who operate their feedlot on an "all in-all out" basis, buying animals in the late summer or fall, and finishing them all during the spring, must enroll now, even if they have no animals on hand at present. Against these producers would register zero animals at present.

Litter size

If you're culling first and second litter sows because they had small litters, you'd better take a look at your breeding management.

First litter sows are capable of having large litters. One young breeder I know weaned 615 pigs from his first 60 farrowings. Most of these were first litter gilts but a few had farrowed for the second time. Several first litter gilts farrowed and raised 12-14 pigs and then rebred within one week of weaning to produce a second, equally large litter.

Litter size is a function of management, not genetics. The genetic component (heritability) is only 5 to 10 percent leaving 90 to 95 percent a matter of how the sows are handled.

Providing the right environment, keeping sows and gilts in good flesh, but not fat, and paying careful attention to the estrus cycle are all factors which ensure that a large number of ova are fertilized. Post-breeding nutrition and housing is important so that more embryos will be implanted in the uterus.

Today's sows have no greater ability to bear and rear large litters than those of 25 years ago. But we know a lot more about how to make them do it.

By using our knowledge, we can make our sow herd more profitable.

Branch 129 news

by Gerald Irish

Last week was another very busy week at your Branch.

Since our President was in Edmonton and our first two vice-presidents were unable to attend, I had the privilege of being asked to represent Branch 129 to the annual Beavers and Cubs Banquet. The thrill and excitement registered by these young lads and the pride on the faces of the fathers must have made it all worthwhile for the Beaver and Cub leaders and organizers. The boys all received recognition for their work over the year and the meal - as usual - was delicious. I have always had excellent meals at the Legion, prepared by the women of the Ladies Auxiliary.

The Kinsmen's Home Show afforded Branch 129 the opportunity to display and sell Bluegrass hats, shirts, beer steins, buttons and pens. At the same booth draw tickets were also sold. On July 12 we will be having a draw for an oil painting. This original, large painting of the Highlands in autumn could be yours for only $1.00. The Legion is selling only 500 of these tickets. Make sure you get yours. Draw tickets on our one package prize of a fourteen feet aluminum boat, a 9.9 h.p. motor and a trailer are really selling well. There are only 1500 tickets printed and are selling for $5.00 each. This draw will take place during the Bluegrass Festival on Saturday, August 9.

This past Sunday, Joan and I visited the site of the Bluegrass Festival and were truly pleased and encouraged by the preparations being done and the progress being made.

We are receiving numerous requests for Bluegrass information and bookings for camp sites and for concessions. Bluegrass brochures have been printed and can be picked up in many locations or Legion members can get theirs with this issue of the Highland Veteran bulletin. We will be enclosing a brochure with each bulletin.

On Saturday afternoon the Legion-sponsored Royal Canadian Army Cadet Corps 1129 held its graduation ceremonies. Murray Fearrey, Reeve of the Municipality of Dysart et al was the reviewing officer and took the official salute. Guests were Lt. Col. Sherry, C.O. of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and Lt. Col. Husk, League Representative and Area C.I.L. Officer for Eastern Ontario.

All of the Cadets were honoured for their work and efforts but six Cadets received special awards. These were: The Gerald Irish trophy to Cadet Callum Wood for showing the most improvement in Cadet dress. The Halco Audio-Visual trophy for best attendance went to Barry Thompson. The most improved Cadet award, the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 129 trophy was presented to Cadet Chantelle Bellefleur. The Haliburton Lumber trophy, for the Best Male Cadet, went to Cadet, Corporal Susan Long, received the Joan Irish trophy and the Commanding Officer's trophy for the Outstanding Cadet went to Cadet Warrant Officer Sandy Sutherland.

The large crowd of parents, relatives, friends and Cadet supporters were most appreciative of the performances of these young men and women.

Last week's 50-50 draw winners was Violet

Maughan who won $39.25. Congratulations, Vi.

Branch 129's representatives at the Dominion Convention in Edmonton have returned and bring us much information about Legion processes, projects, proposals and performances. When President Joan and Branch Secretary Mable give us their reports, I'll try to keep you informed about their findings.

The whole branch was saddened and shocked at the sudden passing of Yvonne Pritchard, wife of First Vice President Doug. Our thoughts and prayers are with Doug and his family and all of Yvonne's relatives and friends.

Guild news

by Virginia Muenzel

It's hard to believe, but the Summer Exhibition and Sale is nearly upon us. Everyone involved is very busy putting it all together. Marie Wallace is co-ordinator this year, with the help of Wendy Bateman as artistic director. The theme is "The Four Seasons". Each season having a captain. They are: for Spring - Lucy Slykerman, Summer - Marion Langdon, Fall - Mimi Carson, and Winter and Christmas - Doreen Elstone.

If anyone would like to help make this huge show a success and has not been asked to do so, the committee would appreciate hearing from you. Please call Marie Wallace at 754-2648.

The sale opens July 3 at 7:30 p.m. with entertainment provided once again by the Guild Choir. As you may know, this is a juried show. Friday, July 4, at 7:30 is awards night. All work is juried by three professional artists who pick the winners. Awards will be given in many of these categories: knitting, quilting, sculpture, wildlife, weaving, silk, painting, in oil and water-colour, wood decorative and functional, ceramics - decorative and functional, jewellery and best garment in the show.

The first prize (value $45) is a one-week course at the Haliburton School of Fine Arts and the second prize is a half a week. These scholarships are made possible through donations by companies in the area, local service clubs, and by private individuals. Receipts for income tax purposes are issued, and we invite interested persons to assist the Guild in making these awards. For more information, please contact Barb Peel 457-2752, or Marie Wallace.

Quilt

More quilt blocks are needed for the "Sampler Quilt" for the 1987 Guild raffle. We are hoping that the quilt blocks (finished 12" square) will be ready and turned in to the Gallery or given to Marie Wallace by June 25.

Weavers

The weavers held their annual Pot Luck meeting June 9. There were 20 people in attendance. The weavers are also in charge of the general meeting being held June 23. The speaker will be Ted Carson, and the subject, "Sheep, Man and Civilization." Time is 7:30 p.m.

Raffle

Now available at all Haliburton lodges are the raffle tickets for a trip for two to Portugal, or $1500, cash.

The trip includes 14 nights accommodation, plus airfare and car (unlimited mileage) and is available November through February 1987 excluding Christmas. Meals are not included. There is an early bird draw on August 2 for $250. Draw date for the trip is October 11, 1986. All proceeds go to the Gallery fund. Cost of the tickets is $5.00.

Show

While you're in the Gallery this month to see "A Walk in the Garden and Floral Images", please take note of the new look in the Boutique. All the centre shelving has been removed leaving a brighter, spacier exhibit of local crafts for sale. There is also a wonderful supply of Ted Carson's wools.

DIRECT INJECTION DIESEL.

Kubota introduces a compact tractor with direct fuel injection. The new L2250 has a 3-cylinder diesel engine with 21 PTO horsepower. Plus it has direct injection for improved starts in cold weather and better fuel economy, too.

Other standard features, not so standard on most tractors of this size, include rear- and mid-mount PTO for maximum versatility when it comes to attaching implements. Surprising, wet disc brakes are standard, too. Power steering is standard on the deluxe model.

Our operator platform is designed for increased comfort, with all the important controls at your fingertips. Not underfoot.

Hi Readers! Another week came and went. Here we come with a beautiful sunshiny day. Church services as usual Sunday evening and Tuesday morning.

The movies, Monday night were Gopher Broke and Upper Canada Village. Tuesday afternoon Linda, Doris and Ken Fielding had a jamboree. It was real good. The music and singing were enjoyed so much that everyone wants them to do it over again real soon.

I must apologise first of all for the mistakes I made as to wrong names and events. You see I am a bit hard of hearing and it makes for errors. I tried to tell the ladies I wasn't good at this job but they just wouldn't listen, so now they know.

A bus load of ladies and gents from the Pines in Bracebridge came on Wednesday for a luncheon in the Auditorium. It was followed by a game of quiz. The home team won by just one point. It was a lot of fun. Everyone seemed to have enjoyed everything very much. That auxiliary of ours sure deserves a lot of credit and thanks for the wonderful way in which they managed everything. Mark and Wayne were a little helpful too of course.

On Friday night, Mr. Bill Payne came with his musical friends, Mr. Smith and two Mr. Deacons. They were real good when they are not acting up but, enjoyed it all very much. Thank you.

On a sadder note, we have just received the news that Yvonne Pritchard has passed away suddenly. We extend our sympathy to her family and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Weldon from Omamee called on Tessa Davis and Annie Cox on Saturday.

Annie Cox's granddaughter Sally Cox graduated Saturday, June 14. Lilly Hogg had her son Howard and his wife, her grandson and his wife and new baby visit with her Saturday.

Chris Todd and Chris Windover came to call on Mrs. Todd.

Charlie Brohm had his son from Toronto Saturday morning visit him and his son from Lindsay visited in the afternoon.

Gordon Carr had his daughters Rella and Kathy to visit with him. Edna Cowan went home with her daughter for a week. We are expecting her back tomorrow. We do hope she will be lots better. Linda and Hans Bueller called on Lily Hogg on Sunday morning. Derek Hewitt and Susanne called to see their Grandmother (that's me) on Sunday morning.

Charles Brohm's son came and took him to Norland to attend Church and have lunch with the family.

All the news for now until next week. Au Revoir.

Hi Kids!!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off in the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!
